St Patrick's College, Silverstream Foundation Newsletter

Editorial

Nicole de la Mare has completed her position of Foundation Manager after her year's contract.

We are very appreciative of the initiatives that she has established and look forward to implementing them in the future.

Tēnā koutou katoa,

I am proud to be appointed 16th Rector of Silverstream after my earlier association and position on the staff as the Deputy Rector for Pastoral Care in the 1990's

I have already met up with a number of my former students as they have gathered here at the College to celebrate their year group reunions.

Recently the Boards held a special character reflective afternoon, where Father John Walls SM spoke on what it means to be a Marist school. His focus was on providing an holistic education for our young men; ensuring the whole person is educated in the Gospel way Jesus wants it. Each student is part of the Marist family, educated spiritually, socially, physically and emotionally.

I look forward to making further contact with the greater Silverstream Community as I carry out my responsibilities as the Rector of the College.

Sectare Fidem
Grahame Duffy
Rector

I look forward to maintaining the link between our wider Silverstream community and the Foundation as we go forward.

Please make contact with any information, especially if you can help in tracing fellow classmates so we can build our database.

Mike O'Leary
Foundation Liaison Officer

The Foundation has been set up to help our students achieve their full potential in their learning, extra-curricular activities and Catholic formation. We invite Old Boys, parents and friends of the College to join the Foundation and share in the life of our College community.

Pou unveiled at Stream restoration

A pou ra`hui, or carved post, set into a stream bank in 2015 has been joined by a mate to stand guard over an ecological restoration project in Upper Hutt. Hato Pe`tera (St Peter) was unveiled in a ceremony on February 28 and joins Hato Pa`tariki (St Patrick) to mark the boundary of a “no-take zone” on the Ma`waiha`kona Stream.

The pou was donated by the Friends of the Mawaihakona Stream who have been undertaking a project to restore the waterway and the 20 metre strip on either side of its banks to a preEuropean floodplain podocarp forest since 2012.

The ceremony included a karakia and boarders from St Patrick’s Silverstream, whose and the stream runs through, sang and preformed a haka to mark the unveiling.

Friends of the Mawaihakona Stream co-ordinator Bart Hogan said the pou were based on sticks or posts formerly used to mark agricultural boundaries.

“Basically [the stream] has become a no-take zone so people will respect it and leave our trees alone - and just enjoy and respect this whole project.”

The pou was carved from a 5 metre to`tara log, of which 3.5 metres stood above ground.

Many hours of hard work had gone into efforts to clear the stream of introduced weeds which choked the ecosystem.

“It was all gorse and willow and blackberry. When we started you couldn’t get anywhere near the stream.”

Cows were also being grazed near the water when the group started the project which Hogan said left the stream in a “disgusting” state.

It was hoped efforts to plant natives such as to`tara and kahikatea would return the land back to its original state and a canopy of native trees would eventually shade out the non-natives.

Ma`waiha`kona, which means to “bail or scoop white water”, is an apt name for the stream as group members spent much of the hot, dry summer carrying buckets from the stream to water the native trees and plants by hand.

St Patrick’s rector Graeme Duffy said he had a lot of admiration for the Friends of the Mawaihakona Stream and their work.

Wellington golfer Jayden Ford charges into third at Junior Open at St Andrews

Jayden Ford Year 10 Student

NZGOLF

He met Jordan Spieth and finished third against some of the world's top under-16 golfers at St Andrews, Scotland.

You could say it's been a memorable week for Wellington 14-year-old golfer Jayden Ford who will head to Carnoustie to cheer on compatriots Ryan Fox and Mike Hendry at the Open Championship.

Ford carded a two-under-par final round of 68 at The Eden course at St Andrews to finish the 54-hole tournament three-under. He was two shots behind South African winner Martin Vorster, who had a shot to spare over runnerup Tsubasa Kajitani of Japan.

"I'm very happy with my week here in St Andrews and I really enjoyed playing this type of links golf and it was a great experience. It was pretty surreal to be playing here and playing well too," said Ford, who snapped a selfie with defending Open champion Spieth earlier in the week.

Ford emerged from the same Titahi Bay club as US Open champion Michael Campbell, and made his name when he finished third against the country's best players as a 12-year-old in qualifying for the New Zealand Amateur at Royal Wellington in 2016. Last year he made Wellington's senior rep team.

The biennial Junior Open, a traditional curtainraiser to the Open Championship, invites all golfing nations affiliated to The R&A to enter their best under-16 boy and girl golfers. This year drew 142 players from 78 countries.

US Masters champion Patrick Reed was one former winner, in 2006, while Open champions Spieth and Rory McIlroy played in the tournament as youngsters.
